Offer to translate pages that aren't in a language I read

When this setting is on, Microsoft Edge detects the language on your webpage and offers to translate if the language detected is not listed under Preferred languages. The webpage text will be sent to Microsoft Translator service for translation, where the text is stored for service improvements. Learn more about how the Microsoft Translator service uses your data Microsoft Privacy Statement.

Use writing assistance

When you use Microsoft Editor, text typed in certain text boxes on the web will be sent to Microsoft cloud service to provide spellcheck, grammar check, and text prediction services. Learn more.
